“We actually have a relationship now”

Hi! During lockdown I had a few breakdowns about how my Dad and I didn't really have a relationship; even though I had lived in the same house with him for 20 years. He first did Every Man A Warrior 6 years ago and has been a leader of it for 5 years or so. I've always thought it was cool and we had zero ideas on how to connect with each other, so he asked if I wanted to do EMAW with him over lockdown/this summer.

I immediately fell in love with the first book and quiet times. I printed off the quiet times and made my small group girls and my bible study girls start to do them. Part of the way into the second book I found Cultivating Holy Beauty and my dad bought me the books so I could start my own group.

The second book of EMAW is very awkward book to do with your father but I actually learned a lot and I think he did too. I like how the stories in the beginning are the struggles of life and Lonnie telling the men to get it together. I kind of wish he could call my Dad one of these days.

Anyway, our relationship is actually a relationship now just because of these books! I am now over halfway through the first book of Cultivating Holy Beauty (excuse me why is this not Every WOMAN A Warrior ?? that would've been a way cooler name) and I am leading a group of girls through it with me! They love it, it is truly life changing. I will admit, although geared towards men, I do prefer the simplistic and straightforward writing of EMAW better. I'm much better at recruiting men than woman- I have recruited 15 men this year to do EMAW!

I just wanted to say these books are awesome and I am very thankful I had the opportunity to go through them.
